Water

On the day before he was crucified Jesus had a special meal with his disciples. Christians call this The Last Supper. At the start of the meal Jesus took a bowl of water and a towel and started washing his disciples' feet. Everyone would have been walking around on the dusty roads in sandals and would have had dirty feet. It was normally the job of the lowliest servant to wash the feet of the guests who had been invited to a meal. Jesus was showing that everyone should put the needs of others before their own needs. Jesus told the disciples that they should follow his example.

In some churches on Maundy Thursday, the day when Christians especially remember The Last Supper, the priest will wash the feet of some of the congregation.
